Killed Under Torture in Interrogation
Palestinian Prisoner + Father + Son

Arafat Jaradat was one of over 4,800 Palestinians detained by Israel's military. Held under detention, without charge, Jaradat was under interrogation after being abducted near midnight on February 18 from his home village, accused of throwing stones. He died on February 23 in Megiddo prison, with broken bones in his chest, neck, arms and legs and visible trauma. Contrary to Israeli reports that he died of a heart attack, his heart was healthy when examined during autopsy. Arafat Jaradat left behind two small children and his pregnant wife, Dalal. Thousands of Palestinians have taken to the streets, demanding justice.
